MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

A SHREWD WAY TO GET A FINE.

The Omnibus, of Naples, relating the following story of a man who recently found means to turn to account the popular superstitions of poisons which have prevailed there since the appearance of the cholera.

The individual in question being exceedingly filthy, and having only a single coin of the value of a sou, laid it out in the purchase of powdered sugar, and as he passed by the stand of one of those open air cooks who make a kind of pancake called fritata, he dropped it, apparently by accident, some of the sugar into the frying-pan.

He was instantly seized by the bystanders as a poisoner caught in the act. He denied vigorously the truth of the allegation, and at last, to prove his innocence, offered to eat the contents of the pan. This proposition was accepted, and he accordingly despatched the pancake with great relish, and then walked off well satisfied with the success of his trick.

Mr. Garrison, in a late lecture, said he thought he ought to have accompanied Sherman in his march through Georgia so as to claim the reward of $5000 once offered for his presence in that State. But he should have had to take his pay in Confederate currency, and it would not have amounted to much. He stated, also, that in his visit to Europe, he was invited to breakfast with Baktin, who was exceedingly surprised to find that he was not a black man having invited a large party to meet the black defender of his race.

TWO STYLES OF CHARACTER. Two Americans were on the steamer on Lake Lucerne, than which there is no more beautiful and interesting water in the world. "This is fine, sir," said the one. "Yes, I suppose so, but did you ever see Lake George?" said the other. "Yes," answered the first, "Lake George is good, but Lake Lucerne is very far away. Hadn't we better enjoy this today?"

DISAPPEARANCE. An old, familiar face has altogether disappeared from the columns of the Southern press. The peripatetic negro with his bundle and stick, who headed such advertisements as "Run Away—My Slave," said the one. "Yes, I suppose so, but did you ever see Lake George?" said the other. "Yes," answered the first, "Lake George is good, but Lake Lucerne is very far away. Hadn't we better enjoy this today?"

MAN VS. BRUTE. One Edward W. Andrews of South Carolina, recently shot a freedman dead because, as he asserted, the negro had stolen his horse. The murderer was put on trial before a military court, proved guilty of the homicide, and as the court did not sanction such a mode of punishing theft, they sentenced Andrews to two years imprisonment—a very light sentence for such an offense, most people at the North will think; but the "chivalry" were incensed, and a petition signed by about two hundred "respectable citizens," was sent to Washington for the release of the culprit.

The matter was laid before the Bureau of Military Justice, which refused the request of the "ruling classes" in the Palmetto State, and in disposing of the case Judge Holt himself a Kentucky—says "the very number of the petitioners furnishes additional grounds for enforcement of this inadequate sentence." The "chivalry" seem to regard a colored man of less consequence than a horse, inasmuch as they would punish with outlawed forms—the theft of the latter by the death of the former. Mr. Holt, says of the case of the "ruling classes" to have the offender go unpunished.

It shows the feeling of hatred to the black race, among those who are lately held that race in abject bondage, to be so deeply seated and widely spread, that the Government is imperatively called on to carry out with the utmost strictness of justice, and to be prepared to meet the consequences of every measure having for its object the protection of this helpless people which the over-throw of treasonable war against human freedom has placed under its most exclusive guardianship.

LANON AT THE SOUTH. Col. Whittey, Assistant Commissioner of the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands in North Carolina, reports that so generally have the Freedmen sought employment and obtained it, that the demand for laborers cannot be easily supplied. Fifty-two German emigrants, who lately arrived at Wilmington from New York, immediately obtained employment on a plantation, the men at $15 and the women at $11 per month.

The Houston (Texas) Telegraph of the 3d inst. says: "Many idle freedmen in this city rushed to the office of the Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau in crowds yesterday and made contract with planters to work on their plantations. They were glad to return to the country and make promises to stay there and work faithfully."

White labor is in great demand in Houston, and the planters and hotel-keepers are discarding black labor as far as possible.

The Clinton (La.) Democrat of the 3d inst. says: "Our planters, from what we can learn, are making but slow progress in securing labor for the present year. In many instances negroes have stayed with their former owners, impressing them with the belief that they would remain and work as usual, but at the close of the year, without a minute's notice, have left in a body, not even a house servant remaining."

A Richmond paper says, that young men
